

NANCY BOYD

Nancy Boyd, a Vancouver artist and educator, has worked in various capacities in the local art scene for many years. Once a designer and illustrator for Expo '86, she now teaches drawing and painting part-time at Capilano College in North Vancouver when she is not in her studio. Her mixed media work is increasingly abstract, highly tactile and frequently infused with figurative or metaphoric allusions. She has shown extensively around the lower mainland in the public galleries of Richmond, Surrey, Burnaby and Coquitlam. In addition, her work has been exhibited in Washington State, Japan and locally at Equinox and Diane Farris galleries. In Vancouver, her work is handled exclusively by Elliot Louis Gallery. In Victoria, her work is shown by Fran Willis Gallery and in Calgary by Wallace Galleries.
